

RELI 184: East Asian Religions

This course presents an overview of the basic ideas and ideals of the major East Asian religious traditions. Throughout the focus will be on the complexity of East Asian religious traditions and their relationship to the environment. The point of the course is to develop an initial sense of the meaning and value of alternative ways of viewing and interacting with the natural world. The course will cover the following major East Asian religious traditions and their environmental philosophies: Confucianism, Daoism, Buddhism, Shintō and Shugendō.

Professor Barbara Ambros

bamabros@email.unc.edu

Monday/Wednesday

11:15-12:05PM

General Education Requirements: Fulfills

PH , BN

