

RELI 501

The History of the Bible in Modern Study

This course will examine how the modern historical-critical enterprise of biblical scholarship arose, out of what historical circumstances, for what purposes, and to what effect. What are its major aspects? How does it relate to other forms of academic and theological inquiry? How has this enterprise fared in recent times?

David Lambert
dalambe@email.unc.edu

Wednesdays
5:00PM-7:50PM

General Education Requirements: BN, WB

