

RELI/PWAD 481

Religion, Fundamentalism, and Nationalism

The course examines the intersection of religion and politics in the Iranian revolution, the Palestinian movement, Hindu nationalism in India, and Christian fundamentalism in America. Beyond academic work, the course draws on popular culture to investigate the relationship between extremism, fundamentalism, and nationalism. We will ask, what role religion plays, if any, in nationalist movements around the world.

No prerequisite

Ehsan Sheikholharam
ehsansh@ad.unc.edu

Tuesdays & Thursdays
9:45AM-11:00AM

General Education Requirements: SS, BN, GL

