

RELI 438

Religion, Nature, and the Environment

This course is designed to help students wrestle with the shifts between, fault-lines beneath, and ruptures within philosophical and religious approaches to nature and the environment. Focusing on the history of the American South, we will explore the myriad answers that have been given to a slippery central question: What is the nature of nature, and what, therefore, are the limits and imperatives of human action?

Ryne Beddard
ryne731@live.unc.edu

Mondays & Wednesdays
3:35PM – 4:50PM

General Education Requirements: PH

