This course is a study of Asian Americans and their religious practices, past and present, with an emphasis on the diversity of the Asian American experience. We will spend some time thinking about who gets included when we think about the term Asian American, and what gets counted as religious practice.