

RELI 481

125 Carolina Hall
p. (919) 962-5666
f. (919) 962-1567Religion, Fundamentalism, and Nationalism

This course examines the intersection of religion and politics in the Iranian revolution, the Palestinian movement, Hindu nationalism in India, and Christian fundamentalism in America. Beyond academic work, the course draws on popular culture to investigate the relationship between extremism, fundamentalism, and nationalism. We will ask, what role religion plays, if any, in nationalist movements around the world. No prerequisites.

Ehsan Sheikholharam
ehsansh@live.unc.eduTu/Th
9:30AM-10:45AM

General Education Requirements: SS, BN, GL

